British Said to Have Halted Nazis in Mt. Olympus Sector

FORTY-MILE SETBACK BELIEVED SUSTAINED BY DEFENDING FORCES

STIMSON SAYS U. S. FACING PERILOUS TIMES

Budapest, Hungary, April 15—(AP)—Official quarters said today that Yugoslavia had asked for an armistice.

Berlin, April 15—(AP)—Authorized military and diplomatic sources denied any knowledge today of any Yugoslavia request for an armistice as reported in Rome.

Rome, April 15—(AP)—A Berlin report that Yugoslavia had asked for an armistice with the Axis was received today in Italian newspaper circles.

Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg invaders have cracked the point of the V-shaped Allied defense line in Greece, captured the key town of Florina in a drive from Bitoli Pass, and forced the British and Greeks to retire to a deeper front in the center, it was acknowledged in Athens today. Hitler's high command reported that Nazi troops occupied Ptolemais and nearby Kozane, 40 miles south of the Albanian-Yugoslav border junction.

If true, this means that the Allies suffered at least a 40-mile setback before taking a new stand. Near Ptolemais, 20 British armored cars were reported destroyed. In Yugoslavia, the high command said German and Italian troops were speeding the "pursuit and encirclement" of remnants of the Serb army, which was said to be putting up "localized" resistance in the Mostar-Sarajevo sector.

On the right flank, the British announced better success in stemming the Nazi onslaught. British troops were said to have hurled back a series of assaults by German panzer columns, in the Mt. Olympus sector in eastern Greece.

ATHENS CLAIMS INVADERS ARE BEING REPULSED

Athens, Greece, April 15—(P)—Repeated German attacks on the British-held right flank of the newly reformed Allied line in northern Greece have been repulsed, but the Nazis are advancing into the Hellenic Kingdom on the left after occupying Philina, which had been the northernmost hinge of the defense line, the British and Greeks disclosed today.

The British said that elsewhere in their sector of the line, in the vicinity of Mount Olympus, "there was no contact with the enemy". Near Ptolemais the Greeks were battling a slow German advance toward the newly-established Allied positions. This Nazi column was forcing the Greeks to fall back both in that area and in the Corizza (Koriza) region of Albania, to (Turn To Page Nine)

SHOCK PROVES FATAL

Pittsburgh, April 15—(P)—Thomas D. McIntyre, 65-year-old special school patrolman in Wilkesburg, fell dead today a few minutes after he found his wife, Margaret, 70, dead in bed. Mrs. McIntyre's death was attributed to a cerebral hemorrhage and McIntyre's to shock and heart disease.

Brief Associated Press War Bulletins

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, April 15—(P)—The capture of General Santini, "who commanded the troops in southern Juba," was reported today in a British communiqué. A brigadier also was taken prisoner, the communiqué declared. It said the British had reached the Omo river, 106 miles southwest of Addis Ababa, while another column which bridged the Awash river moved south from Dama and occupied Aselle.

London, April 15—(P)—British warplanes dropped heavy bombs "either on or near" the 26,000-ton German battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst in another attack last night on the German naval base at Brest, the air ministry announced today.

Istanbul, Turkey, April 14—(Delayed)—(P)—Political talks of an undisclosed nature were reported under way tonight between Soviet Russia and Turkey. The talks were understood to be in progress at Ankara, Turkey's capital. Turkish reaction to the new Japanese-Soviet neutrality pact, meanwhile, was that "it is of direct concern to Germany."

Cairo, Egypt, April 15—(P)—British planes raided Sofia, capital of German-occupied Bulgaria, the night of April 13-14 and started many fires in storage yards where munitions trucks were blown up, the RAF command announced today.

Rome, April 15—(P)—The Italian high command announced today that the fascist columns advancing from the north and from Zara had occupied the Yugoslav railway center of Knin, about midway of the Adriatic coastline.

Berlin, April 15—(P)—Minister of Munitions Fritz Todt, who built the German Siegfried Line, or west wall, has gone to Ostrołęka (Poland) with three of his closest collaborators for extensive inspection of Germany's eastern fortifications.

London, April 15—(P)—The British submarine Tigris has sunk a "heavily laden tanker of about 10,000 tons," bound for a port in German-occupied France, the admiralty announced tonight.

London, April 15—(P)—Loss of the 5,450-ton cruiser Bonaventure was acknowledged tonight by the admiralty. She was torpedoed while acting as escort to a convoy, said the brief announcement.

Titusville Housing Project Progressing

Pittsburgh, April 15—(P)—The federal government acquired immediate possession today of approximately 50 acres of land at Titusville, for a 200-unit defense housing project.

The land was transferred to the government in a declaration of taking, filed by Assistant United States Attorney Elliott W. Finkel and signed by Judge R. M. Gibson in federal court. Simultaneously, a petition for condemnation of the land was filed and June 25, 1941, was fixed as the return date. The government deposited $15,000 in court to reimburse the I. L. Shank estate for the land, situated on Park avenue, just north of the Titusville city limits.

Finkel said the project would serve defense workers of the Cyclus Steel Company, the Titusville Iron Works, and the Titusville Forge Company. Eight oil wells are at present situated on the property, he said.

STEEL WORKERS OPEN DRIVE TO EXTEND RAISES

Chairman of the Union and C. I. O. President Call First With Union Committee on Head of the Jones and Laughlin Corporation

OTHERS FOLLOW SUIT

Pittsburgh, April 15—(P)—The CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee today opened a cleanup drive to gain its 600-odd contracts as the 10-cents an hour pay raise and other changes granted by the U. S. Steel Corporation.

Philip Murray, SWOC chairman and CIO president, called first with union committee on Chairman H. Edgar Lewis of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation.

The union already has an exclusive bargaining agency contract with J. and L. and is barring a serious breach over its desire to add the check-off of dues to this contract, a quick understanding was predicted by observers. Crucible and Pittsburgh steel were expected to be met next.

Meanwhile, most of the other big steel companies joined in granting the raise which was flashed first last week by Ernest T. Weir, chairman of National Steel Corporation, latest newcomer to the top ranks of the industry's concerns.

A boost in the price of steel before the start of the third quarter July 1 is a possibility. Quotations for the second quarter have been withheld so far.

In New York, U. S. Steel officials disclosed the wage boost would add $62,000,000 yearly to its direct operating costs—representing a big part of the $102,000,000 (Turn To Page Nine)

MERCY KILLING PROBED BY JURY

Sunbury, April 15—(P)—A coroner's jury today found John Hogendobler, 50-year-old farmer "responsible" for the slaying last week of his ailing wife, and recommended that he be turned over to the Northumberland county district attorney for "proper action". State Motor Police Sergeant E. W. Lantz, who witnessed called by the jury, testified Hogendobler told him he shot his wife, Clara, 47, "to end her suffering". The woman, who died of a bullet wound through the head, had been suffering from asthma.

The jury's verdict followed an order of Judge C. K. Morganroth yesterday that Hogendobler be examined by psychiatrists. He had pleaded guilty late last week to the murder charge.

In ordering a psychiatric examination for Hogendobler Judge C. K. Morganroth said he would await a report on the examination by Danville State Hospital alienists before ordering the farmer to appear for a formal hearing. (Turn To Page Nine)

KENTUCKY MINE WAR FLARES UP

Four Men Are Killed, Eight Others in Hospitals, and An Estimated 15 to 20 Receive Medical Treatment Early Today Following Gunfire Along Highway Leading to Operations Near Tennessee Line

MIDDLESBORO FOUNDER IS ONE OF THE VICTIMS

Middlesboro, Ky., April 15—(P)—Four men were killed, eight others were in hospitals and an estimated 15 to 20 received medical treatment early today following gunfire in this southeast Kentucky soft coal field.

The dead: C. W. Rhodes, 45, of Middlesboro, president of the Fork Ridge Coal Company and of the American Association, a combination of soft coal mining interests which founded Middlesboro; E. W. Silvers, Middlesboro, vice president and treasurer of the coal company; Bob Robinson, Tazewell, Tenn., a former Tennessee highway patrolman; Sam Evans, Middlesboro, a miner.

Patrolman Guy Harrell of Middlesboro said the shooting occurred on the Kentucky side of the Kentucky-Tennessee line near this mountain town and followed concentration of miners from Bell and adjoining counties where union miners have sought to stop all operations pending settlement of work contract negotiations between the Cio-United Mine Workers and coal operators of the Appalachian field.

The bloodshed came with a blast of bullets on a road leading to the Fork Ridge coal company mine which is about one mile inside the Tennessee line. Harrell said motorcades of miners assembled here last night and proceeded toward the mine, which has worked throughout the stoppage of operations in adjoining Harlan county subsequent to the expiration of the union-operator Appalachian contract April 1.

Five men were killed in two gunshots affrays in Harlan county April 1 and 2 as union miners pickets sought to enforce a stoppage of mining there. All Harlan (Turn To Page Nine)

SEE HOPES FOR PARTIAL PEACE IN COAL FIELDS

New York, April 15—(P)—The personal intervention of Labor Secretary Frances Perkins in the stagnated soft-coal situation gave some promise today of at least a partial settlement of the dispute.

Miss Perkins appeared before deadlocked negotiators last night and urged northern bituminous operators and the United Mine Workers Union of America (U. M. W.) sign a pact allowing 55 per cent of Appalachian fields to reopen. "We had a very pleasant conversation," was her only comment, but Chief Federal Conciliator John R. Steelman said that as a result of her plea the prospect for acceptance of her recommendation was bright.

Steelman said that the secretary stressed the "intense desire" on the part of the government for an early resumption of coal production and that, spurred by her words, today's negotiations were likely to be "very important". Today's parley is set for 4 p. m. (EST).

The agreement sought by Miss Perkins would permit mines producing two-thirds of the nation's bituminous tonnage to reopen, and would send 250,000 miners back to work after being idle since April 1, when their old contract expired. (Turn To Page Nine)

STATE COLLEGE DORM DESTROYED

State College, Pa., April 15—(P)—The early today except a large downtown dormitory destroyed in this college town by a fire which broke out in the 27 Penn State State College and occupants were summoned to return from a one-week Easter vacation.

Only about half of the girls' clothing and a few pieces of furniture were saved as the fire first discovered in the basement shortly before midnight, spread rapidly through the 27-room brick and wood structure.

Miss Jessie Hughes, manager of the dormitory, was in Scotland when the fire was discovered but flew by airplane to the scene. There were no persons living in the dormitory during the Easter vacation. It was the college town's second major fire in two weeks. Another blaze of undetermined origin destroyed the Allencrest hotel and restaurant two weeks ago, with a loss estimated at $45,000. Record April Heat Wave to Break Soon

By the Associated Press
Immediate relief was forecast today in the wake of all-time April 14 heat records in some Pennsylvania communities.

Meteorologists predicted showers would bring cooler weather, driving the mercury down from as high as 90 at Reading and Philadelphia.

Only a casualty of the warm weather was George Krieller, 51, Plymouth, who was admitted to a Wilkes-Barre hospital for treatment of heat exhaustion. He was stricken unconscious while at work in 55-degree weather. Office buildings in Philadelphia turned on air conditioning and police shed winter uniforms as the temperature hit 90, equalling the all-time April high of 1929.

Pittsburgh's 53 was five degrees higher than the previous all-time high for the steel city on April 14, 1883. Harrisburg reported 88. A forest fire burned over 150 acres on Cove Mountain north of Marysville.

Washington, April 15—(P)—Italy's latest protest against seizure of 28 of her ships in American ports is expected to meet with prompt and unqualified rejection. Noting that the protest is based on a contention of illegality, informed persons recalled today that this government already has taken the position that American law fully justified its action in placing the ships under coast guard protection and bringing sabotage charges against most of their officers and crewmen.

Marriage to President's Son is Climax to Cinderella Romance of Wisconsin Farm Girl

Beavertown, Calif., April 15—(P)—An so the little Wisconsin farm girl who nursed him back to health became the bride of the president's eldest son. Climaxing her Cinderella romance, and wearing shoes of spun glass, Rose Marie Schneider, 25, and Capt. James Roosevelt, 33, U. S. Marine Corps reservist, were married in a simple civil ceremony yesterday.

His mother, who flew here for the ceremony, kissed the radiant bride and said: "My dear, I am so happy for you." The first lady gave her daughter-in-law a family heirloom, a large old gold double diamond clip, as a wedding present. Roosevelt's girl was a diamond and ruby bracelet. The word "cherish" was substituted for "obey" in the marriage vows. Three secret service men accompanied Mrs. Roosevelt and about a dozen were on duty near the wedding. She left after the wedding dinner to keep a lecture engagement in Charlotte, N. C., tonight. Roosevelt met Miss Schneider from Independence, Wis., after he rushed to Rochester, Minn., for a stomach operation in 1932. President Roosevelt asked that a special nurse be assigned and Miss Schneider was selected. She accompanied him to Hollister, Calif., to recuperate and has been near him since. He was divorced by Betsey Cushing Roosevelt of Boston 13 months ago. She has custody of their two children.

War Department, Testifying as First Witness Before New Investigating Committee, Indicates That Future Preparations to Meet Emergency The Civilian Needs May Be Further Subordinated

Washington, April 15—(P)—The Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, told senators today that the army's light and medium tanks were "superior in speed, armor and weapons to those of any other army" and its bombing and pursuit planes better than Europe's best.

Patterson testified before the defense investigating committee after Secretary of War Stimson had told the same group that the United States was facing "a dangerous emergency," which "may be very prolonged."

In preparations to meet this emergency, Stimson indicated, civilian needs may be subordinated to the military program.

Before the House naval committee, Secretary of the Navy Knox likewise spoke gravely, saying: "We are now in the midst of the decisive period of this world war and step by step I see my country gradually being encircled, isolated and should disaster come to those who are actually engaged in this war, I see this nation surrounded by nations who have known how they feel about our nation and our institutions." In a lengthy explanation of the defense procurement program, Patterson asserted charges that the War Department had favored large concerns in letting contracts were "unfounded." (Turn To Page Nine)

Phila. Slum Clearance Project Opens Today

Philadelphia, April 15—(P)—A $250 investment in the Irish Sweepstakes by a negro family on relief made possible the opening today of a $150,000 slum clearance project, first of its kind to be privately financed in this country.

Pearl and Benjamin Mason held a ticket on the victorious Workman in 1939 and with their winnings, built the Frances Plaza Apartment for members of their race, naming the development after the daughter who drew the top prize.

Happy to share their good fortune, the couple was on hand to welcome first occupants selected from more than 500 applicants for the 50 South Philadelphia dwellings.

Nearly $100,000 of the Masons' $150,000 prize went into the project, loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and a bank accounting for the remainder.

Washington, April 15—(P)—Italy's latest protest against seizure of 28 of her ships in American ports is expected to meet with prompt and unqualified rejection.

Noting that the protest is based on a contention of illegality, informed persons recalled today that this government already has taken the position that American law fully justified its action in placing the ships under coast guard protection and bringing sabotage charges against most of their officers and crewmen.

When coast guardsmen boarded the vessels they found that vital machinery of 25 had been seriously damaged. The Rome government in a note delivered to Secretary Hull by the Italian ambassador, Prince Colonna, yesterday (Turn To Page Nine)

GUNS SMUGGLED IN TO CONVICTS

White Plains, N. Y., April 15—(P)—Two outside aides of the convict trio that crashed out of Sing Sing yesterday with a loss of four lives admitted early today their part in the dramatic prison break and were charged with first-degree murder.

District Attorney Elbert T. Gallagher said that after hours of grilling by state police, William Wade, 32, and Edward Kiernan, 33, confessed smuggling three revolvers into the big gray prison nearly a month ago under the chassis (Turn To Page Nine)

Marriage to President's Son is Climax to Cinderella Romance of Wisconsin Farm Girl

Beverly Hills, Calif., April 15—(P)—An so the little Wisconsin farm girl who nursed him back to health became the bride of the president's eldest son.

Climaxing her Cinderella romance, and wearing shoes of spun glass, Romelle Theresa Schneider, 25, and Capt. James Roosevelt, 33, U. S. Marine Corps reservist, were married in a simple civil ceremony yesterday.

His mother, who flew here for the ceremony, kissed the radiant Romelle and said: "My dear, I am so happy for you."

The first lady gave her daughter-in-law a family heirloom, a large old gold double diamond clip, as a wedding present. Roosevelt's gift was a diamond and ruby bracelet.

The word "cherish" was substituted for "obey" in the marriage vows.

Three secret service men accompanied Mrs. Roosevelt and about a dozen were on duty near the wedding. She left after the wedding dinner to keep a lecture engagement in Charlotte, N. C., tonight.

Roosevelt met Miss Schneider, from Independence, Wis., after he rushed to Rochester, Minn., for a stomach operation in 1938. President Roosevelt asked that a special nurse be assigned and Miss Schneider was selected. She accompanied him to Hollister, Calif., to recuperate and has been near him since.

He was divorced by Betsy Cushing Roosevelt of Boston 13 months ago. She has custody of their two children.

War Department, Testifying as First Witness Before New Investigating Committee, Indicates That Future Preparations to Meet Emergency The Civilian Needs May Be Further Subordinated

PAYS TRIBUTE TO THE ARMY GENERAL STAFF

Washington, April 15—(P)—The Undersecretary of War Robert H. Patterson told senators today that the army's light and medium tanks were "superior in speed, armor and weapons to those of any other army" and its bombing and pursuit planes better than Europe's best.

Patterson testified before the defense investigating committee after Secretary of War Stimson had told the same group that the United States was facing "a dangerous emergency" which "may be very prolonged."

In preparations to meet this emergency, Stimson indicated, civilian needs may be subordinated to the military program.

Before the House naval committee, Secretary of the Navy Knox likewise spoke gravely, saying: "We are now in the midst of the decisive period of this world war and step by step I see my country gradually being encircled. Isolated and should disaster come to those who are actually engaged in this war, I see this nation surrounded by nations who have made known how they feel about our nation and our institutions."

In a lengthy explanation of the defense procurement program, Patterson asserted charges that the War Department had favored large concerns in letting contracts were "unfounded." (Turn To Page Nine)

Phila. Slum Clearance Project Opens Today

Philadelphia, April 15—(P)—A $250 investment in the Irish Sweepstakes by a negro family on relief made possible the opening today of a $150,000 slum clearance project, first of its kind to be privately financed in this country.

Paul and Benjamin Mason held a ticket on the victorious Workman in 1939 and with their winnings, built the Frances Plaza Apartment for members of their race, naming the development after the daughter who drew the top horse.

Happy to share their good fortune, the couple was on hand to welcome first occupants selected from more than 300 applicants for the 50 South Philadelphia dwellings.

Nearly $100,000 of the Masons' $150,000 prize went into the project, loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and a bank accounting for the remainder.

COUNTY BOARDS SEND FOUR MEN EACH ON MAY 5

Warren county's two selective service boards, engaged at present in the task of picking eighteen men for induction into the U. S. Army on April 30, soon will be compiling another list of selectees to be sent into service on May 5, according to information received here today.

This country's quota for the first May call, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Harrisburg, will be four men from each of the two boards.

The United States Army has called for 2,002 men from Pennsylvania to enter one year's training under the selective service program.

The third April quota for Warren county includes six men from Local Board No. 1 and five from Local Board No. 2. However, with the replacements to be sent for those rejected last week will bring the total to nine for each board.

DOUBLE FEATURE AT TRACTION AT LIBRARY WED. AND THURS.

"Adam Had Four Sons" The laughter and the tears of a changing world have been dramatically captured in Columbia's "Adam Had Four Sons," which opens Wednesday and Thursday at the Library Theatre, a stirring, memorable story of an American family, of its loves and feuds and heartbreak and happiness.

Compounded of these elements which make for great entertainment, "Adam Had Four Sons" is a refreshing, compelling motion picture which stars Ingrid Bergman and Warner Baxter, with a splendid cast of top-notch supporting players headed by Susan Hayward, Fay Wray, Helen Westley, Richard Denning, Johnny Downs and Robert Shaw. Gregory Ratoff directed with sensitive understanding, so that "Adam Had Four Sons" emerges even greater than the novel upon which it was based, Charles Bonner's "Legacy."

"Knockout," an exciting film of the prize ring with a novel twist opens Wednesday and Thursday at the Library Theatre. The Warner Bros. picture stars Arthur Kennedy, as a pug who could handle himself admirably in the ring but not out of it. Charming Olympie Bradna has the leading feminine role as Kennedy's devoted wife.

LITTLE JACK LITTLE AND HIS ORCHESTRA AT LIBRARY TODAY

"Dance orchestras and their leaders should always bear one thing in mind, and that is that their primary reason for existence is to play dance music." That is how Little Jack Little, personable maestro who brings his band to the Library Theatre today only, afternoon and evening expresses his ideas on the subject of dance music.

Continuing, Little adds, "A dancer is interested chiefly in rhythm. Though the fancy embellishments may sound fine on the air, when the crowd is on the dance floor, what they want is Rhythm. Rhythm, and more Rhythm. Some dancers want swing music, others prefer the sweet variety of tunes. All of them have to be pleased so that by presenting a varied program and by mixing them up we attempt to satisfy the moods of all schools of thought."

Sponsored by Sam Harris, the Moss Hart-George S. Kaufman comedy will furnish an exciting evening to local theatregoers, who will see Mr. Woolcott act the role he is said to have inspired and which, in spots, pictures many of his alleged mannerisms.

The supporting cast is headed by the talented Edith Atwater in her original role of the secretary; Doris Nolan of stage and cinema

COUNTY BOARDS SEND FOUR MEN EACH ON MAY 5

Warren county's two selective service boards, engaged at present in the task of picking eighteen men for induction into the U. S. Army on April 30, soon will be compiling another list of selectees to be sent into service on May 5, according to information received here today.

This county's quota for the first May call, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Harrisburg, will be four men from each of the two boards.

The United States Army has called for 2,002 men from Pennsylvania to enter one year's training under the selective service program.

The third April quota for Warren county includes six men from Local Board No. 1 and five from Local Board No. 2. However, with the replacements to be sent for those rejected last week will bring the total to nine for each board.

OIL CITY FIRE

Damage estimated at from $4,000 to $5,000 was caused last night by fire which swept through the third floor of the old National Hotel building on Railroad street, Oil City, and gave firemen a stubborn two-hour battle before it was completely extinguished. A considerable portion of the damage was suffered by the Penn Restaurant, operated by Mrs. Sophia M. Thomas, and resulted from water which poured down into the place as firemen fought to curb the flames in the upper story. Cause of the fire was not determined.

NASH AGENCY IS OPENED HERE BY WERLIN MOTORS

Impressed by the rapid public acceptance of the Nash Ambassador '600', the newest automobile to make its appearance in the lowest-price field, one of Warren's leading automobile men will switch this week to selling Nash cars in this area.

A familiar and highly regarded figure in local automobile circles, Bert Werlin announces his appointment as a dealer here for the Nash Motors Division of the Nash-Kelvinator Corporation. He will direct operations of the company, Werlin Motor Sales, at 617 Pennsylvania avenue.

Thoroughly experienced in the automobile business, particularly from a service standpoint, Werlin has been established here for eleven years.

The company, it was announced, will handle all three series of new Nash cars, including the new low-priced Nash Ambassador '600', the big, high-economy car with which Nash is competing with Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth in the mass market this year.

"Nash has been working for four years on its plans to enter the low-price field," declared Werlin, and this year brought out the only completely new 1941 automobile, with an array of features that are giving it tremendous appeal to buyers of the most inexpensive cars.

The Ambassador '600', he said, is distinguished principally by its size and unprecedented big-car economy. Front seats are nearly five feet wide, and in its price class, its roominess is not surpassed in 25 different comfort measurements, he declared. Despite its size, the car will travel from 25 to 30 miles on a gallon of gasoline, with the average driver at the wheel.

This remarkable economy, he pointed out, was achieved by Nash by means of a new type of body construction, described as "unitized," and a new "Flying Scot" power plant. The body, with an integral chassis frame, is of bridge-truss construction which he said added considerable strength and rigidity while trimming about 400 pounds of useless weight from the car.

Werlin pointed out that the new car is the only automobile in its field to be suspended on four coil springs, with a front-end suspension adapted from a high-price European racing car, and featuring the "Weather Eye" system of conditioned air for winter driving. Also available for the first time in the field is the famous Nash "bedroom," and fourth speed forward, an optional cruising gear that further increases the great economy of the '600'.

With this new car, and the two senior lines of Nash automobiles, the Aeropowered Nash Ambassador Sixes and Eights, the company now has a car to offer nearly every motorist, covering 92 per cent of the automotive market. Last year Nash competed in only about 35 per cent of the market.

Chapter 30
Brett Explains

"BECAUSE I've decided against making a fool of myself," Brett said sagely. "Because I'm having a hard enough time being noble about this, without getting myself in deeper. There's no use talking about a thing unless you can do something about it."

"I—I don't understand what you mean," Eve said dreamily. She had picked up an odd seashell and was turning it over in her hands as if she had never seen such an object before. Brett looked at her downcast face and jammed his hands into his pockets to keep from taking her in his arms.

"All right, then—if you must have it in words of one syllable," he said fiercely. "I love you. Do you understand that? I love you."

Eve looked up, the color sweeping across her face and making her eyes more than ever the same shade as the water at her feet.

"Yes, I understand that," she said quietly.

"Then everything's fine, I suppose," Brett went on bitterly. "You've another conquest to add to your list—another man who couldn't resist you. Of course, not much of a conquest, really. Not a society guy, or one with money. Just a queer fellow who likes odd houses and has to work for a living. It won't be much to laugh about with your friends, will it? But just the same, to some girls, making a man fall in love is part of a game. Well—you won't."

"Brett!" Eve protested.

"No—let me finish," he went on swiftly. "I've got a right to say something for myself. No matter how many men have said I love you—nor how many others may say it in the years to come—you won't hear one say it and mean it as I do. You're young and gay and pretty; but if you were old and tired and sick, I'd still want nothing so much as to hold you in my arms."

Together

EVE abandoned the seashell and went over to where he stood, half turned away from her, looking at the plane.

"Why don't you?" she inquired.

"Why don't I what?"

Brett looked at her, astonishment and a sternly repressed hope struggling for expression. Eve smiled at him, her eyes tender.

"I love you, too," she went on. "I'm afraid not the same way—because I can't imagine loving anyone who isn't big and strong, as you are, with curly dark hair and stormy eyes. I even love the stubborn way your mouth sets, when you get angry—like you are now."

"Neil?" Brett finally managed the name. Eve shook her head.

"That's over," she explained. "I—I found out I was in love with you."

Brett's arms were trembling as he reached out and folded her in them. He held her lightly, as if afraid she would disappear if he clasped her too close.

"But—but I haven't anything to offer you much except myself—and a job. You might have a necklace of diamonds, Eve—I—I can only give you this kind of a necklace." He bent his head and gently circled her throat with a string of light kisses. Eve, laughing and breathless, said gaily:

"I'll never wear any other jewels, never!"

"My darling!"

Departure

OUTSIDE, a prolonged series of catcalls reminded them that the others were waiting down by the pier. Brett picked Eve up and carried her down the stairs and out to the porch. Then he kissed her as if he would never let her go, and reluctantly set her on her feet. They followed Julie down the now familiar path to the shore where the others were waiting.

Ham and Gina repeated over and over that they would be back in six weeks, ready to finish up the house. Again Brett assured them that he would have it all ready for them when they returned.

Gina looked speculatively at Eve. Like Neil, she had noticed her friend's deep contentment, and she suspected the cause. But she knew that Eve would tell her everything a little later, so she stifled her curiosity. The goodbyes were hasty.

Eve could scarcely see the lonely figure that stood on the shore, waving, as the plane motor began to roar. For a minute she was tempted to run back and stay with Brett.

Gina, curled up next to Ham, sighed happily and put her head against his shoulder.

"You know, darling," she said dreamily, "I think we'll keep the name, Heart's Haven." It seems so appropriate."

Ham murmured some sort of assent, but it was Eve who said decidedly:

"Don't you dare change the name, Gina Goodell. Heart's Haven is just perfect!" She smiled at Julie, and the older woman, her eyes suspiciously bright, leaned over and kissed her gently on the cheek.

of Salonika.

A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch said that the Germans were moving also toward Kilsura, Albanian town near Tepeleni, on the Greek western front.

The Greek High Command said that Greek forces had withdrawn from the Corizza (Koriza) sector, in southeast Albania, and that "the enemy discovered the withdrawal 24 hours after it began and sought in vain to hinder it by pushing forward motorcyclists."

Premier Mussolini's High Command asserted that the Italian 9th Army, after taking Corizza, was driving on toward Greece through a gap torn in the western half of the Allied defense line.

Authorized quarters in Berlin declared the German High Command, through Luftwaffe observations, had discovered undisputable proof that the British were preparing a hasty retreat from inside the border from Libya.

The fate of the trapped British garrison at Tobruk remained uncertain, but London officials said that between 200 and 300 German prisoners had been seized in a British counter-attack and that 12 Axis planes had been shot down over the Libyan fortress.

On the Albanian-Yugoslav front, Italian press dispatches said the Serb army was being forced back into the mountains at most places. They told of a fierce battle in which masses of shouting Serbs hurled themselves against Italian lines near Soutari, on northern Albania's frontier with Yugoslavia. These reports said the attack had failed.

The German press declared 110,000 tons of British supply ships and transports had been sunk or damaged by German dive bombers in attacks on Piraeus, the port for Athens. It was implied that the ships had been brought up to take British forces out of Greece.

Berlin newspapers reflected a view that the fighting in Yugoslavia is finished except for mopping up, and directed interest to the North African theatre of war.

In a secret session, the Egyptian chamber of deputies ratified an agreement reached between the government and British authorities. The nature of the agreement was not disclosed.

The vanguard of the Axis expeditionary force in North Africa was reported pressing deeper into Egypt after capturing Salum, just where Axis forces have driven on to Egyptian soil and are in action near Salum.

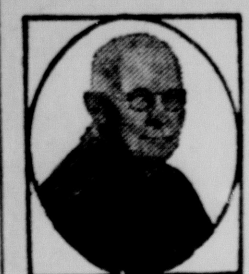

British bombers were credited with a new night attack on Brest, raided seven times in the past two weeks in an attempt to put a stop to the Nazi battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst, anchored there.

Raiders on England overnight were described in London as relatively light.

WPA WORKER SUICIDES
Ellwood City, April 15—(AP)—Dominick Cartalone, 63-year-old WPA worker of Koppel, Beaver county, shot and killed himself last night while standing on a Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad bridge near here. Coroner R. C. McCarter reported today. Two children who witnessed the shooting notified police.

Ontario mines produced gold and silver valued at $109,508,900 during 1939.

WILLIAM MUIR 90 YEARS OF AGE

The following fine tribute was paid William Muir by Virginia Laughner, in the St. Petersburg, Fla., Times last Friday, on the occasion of the 90th birthday celebration of the former Warren resident:

Anyone who knows much about the sturdy saga of Pennsylvania's oil industry knows that William Muir's name is to it as greenery is to spring. The realization that he quietly celebrated his ninetieth birthday here last night is a little disturbing to the multitudes of petroleum and oil workers who are accustomed to thinking of the now white-haired Mr. Muir as one of the tycoons, who had a premier finger in the gush of oil across the Keystone state. Tycoons aren't supposed to age in history.
They're too vital.

Ninety years are resting lightly, however, upon the shoulders of William Muir in this balmy spring weather. Accepting congratulations at the head of his birthday dinner table at the Princess Martha hotel last night, he didn't look like the same sailing man who came here years ago.

The current war abroad, from an economic standpoint as it affects the United States, is responsible for the steady inflow of mail, pamphlets and personal letters finding their way to the big roll-top desk in the Muir office here. From 1916 until 1918, during World War I, with Roosevelt, who then was assistant secretary of navy, Muir served on the national oil board, under President Wilson. But he calls 90 the age of discretion now and he won't quote probabilities for anybody. "Everything has changed too much," is the Muir philosophy. "Refining methods are entirely different."

Born in Carbondale, Pa., Muir kindled his future success by going to work at an early age for the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company; then he switched over to the contracting business. He built his first oil refinery (at the age of 35) in Carbondale, Pa., during 1875.

Between then and the time he moved to Warren, Pa., in 1887, he built another refinery in Corry, Pa., and remodeled another.
His move to Warren brought about the initial step of remodeling the Glade Oil Works for A. S. Holmes and supervising it for a year before he erected the Muir Oil Works. From then on, his leisure moments and any thought that he might ever celebrate a 90th birthday in Florida were too gossamer to worry about. Because William Muir was busy purchasing the Glade Oil Works for himself and building the Lincoline Gasoline Works.

He progressed to Titusville, Pa., in 1902 to build the Pennsylvania Paraffin Works and to take a hand in the formation of the Bessemer Refining Company in 1912. Not long after that, the entire array of Muir interests in Warren and Titusville was taken over by the Crew Levick Company, with Muir as general manager of the corporation.

After the death of Lewis Levick, Muir became president, but in 1917 the whole combination changed hands again and was sold to City Service of New York. Muir wrote the finale to that chapter in his life by remaining with the organization two years before he retired.

During the time he was serving on the national oil board, he was officiating as president of the National Petroleum Company.
His longest period of personal economic service terminated this past January, when he resigned as president of the First National Bank of Warren. He had held the job since 1912.

After Muir sold out his oil interests, he migrated to Florida and in 1918 bought the big rambling stucco house at 1724 North Shore Drive, where he is still residing.

In 1924 he became interested in the Princess Martha hotel, of which he is president. The lodge and club affiliations of this friendly, outspoken man include the Odd Fellows, of which he has been a member since 1871; he is a thirty-second degree Mason, a Shriner, a member of the Y. M. C. A., the Rotary Club and the Tampa Consistory.

All of Mr. Muir's family and a few intimate friends gathered for a dinner party, congratulations and toasts for the ninetieth birthday anniversary last evening in the Princess Martha hotel.
Mrs. M. F. Cowden and Mrs. Marian von Tacky, both of Warren, Pa., and daughters of Mr. Muir, planned the celebration.

Other family members present were Mr. Muir's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Muir, of Warren; two granddaughters, Mrs. Leah Donley of St. Petersburg and Mrs.
W. H. Alexander of Warren; a grandson, George William Muir, and Mrs. Muir of St. Petersburg; a son-in-law, M. F. Cowden of Warren.

WHEN SOMEBODY GIVES—THAT'S NEWS!

Not "What can I get?" but "What can I do?"

Everybody knows that we need more of that spirit.
Not so many actually do anything about it.

In Lincoln, Ill., 500 members of the Logan County Building and Construction Trades Council are doing something about it. A proposal had been made by the Lincoln Evening Courier that ornamental approaches be built at the points where state highways entered Lincoln. Leaders of the carpenters', teamsters', painters', plumbers', and common laborers' unions became interested. Their members volunteered to do the work without cost to the state, which co-operated by lending planners and machinery.

So on May 10 Lincoln unveils the first of a series of the city gateways, made possible because it has men who are proud enough of their town to be willing voluntarily to do something about it; because it has men who were willing to ask not "What can I get?" but "What can I do?"

Deaths of two highly-respected citizens whose long residences in the community endeared them to many citizens were recorded Monday in the passing of Mrs.
Pauline Goodrich and George W. McClen, whose respective families have the sympathy of large circles of friends.

Going to seem rather dull again with all those young people returning to their studies in schools and colleges.

sure reward succeeds.—Congreve.

Anyone With Bomb Tossing Plans or Nazi Speeches to Sell Better Watch Out or Old Goblin DJSDU Will Get Him

Washington, April 15—The little matter of checking up on the observance of some 275 federal laws dealing with various phases of defense is one of the more important but lesser known jobs the Department of Justice has had to tackle.
To do this work a new Special Defense Unit has been set up, with Justice Robert's Philadelphia lawyers—not one of Mr. Justice Frankfurter's fair-haired boys—at its head. With RFC, NRA and SEC experience, Mr. Smith comes to Washington qualified to take on DJSDU.

The special unit is now in the process of expansion, owing to the increasing complexity of the defense setup, but ever since the Neutrality act of 1939 the unit has had its fingers in some of the deepest international hash that has been cooking, including the legal aspects of recent ship seizures, destruction of foreign propaganda mail, alien registration and so on, right back to the drafting of the selective service regulations.

Biggest job ahead of the unit now is organization of a staff to administer the Voochis act, a task given to Richmond Keith Kane, who is a Harvard lawyer. They always get one in some place, and this one will have a staff of more than 100 lawyers, research men, language specialists and assorted experts.

You may not have heard much about this Voochis act, but if you've forgotten, it's a by-product of the Dies committee investigations, and while it has a pretty technical definition, it says in effect that every organization "subject to foreign control," engaging in political, military or civilian activity, must register with the government.

Shooting the works in legal lingo, it wants to know all about "every organization, the purpose or aim of which . . . is the establishment, control, conduct, seizure or overthrow of a government, or subdivision thereof, by the use of force, violence, military measures, or threats of any one or more of the foregoing."

Translating that and mentioning names, it would like to have the Communist party and the German-American Bund, if they're subject to foreign control, step up and say so. It would not include an organization working for the overthrow of the German government in Czechoslovakia, for the United States still recognizes the government of President Benes.

Anyway, the law went into effect Jan. 15, 1941, and all the "subversive" to use the nastiest name a congressman can call you today—organization had 30 days in which to register, or else be fined $10,000 and spend five years

a bottomless mudhole the thoro-

Crater Lake Was Formed When Volcano Collapsed

THOUSANDS of years ago there were many active volcanoes in America. One of these was Mount Mazama, in the Cascade range of southern Oregon, which built itself up by repeated eruptions to a period of quiet, glaciers covered the volcano. Then the mountain collapsed, under its weight of lava and ice, fell into its own hollowed-out core.

A huge crater, 3000 feet deep and six miles in diameter was created. Gradually rain and melting snow filled it.

Today this is Crater Lake, pictured on the U. S. 6-cent stamp above, of the U. S. National Parks series. Here is one of nature's marvels—a clear blue lake, 2000 feet deep, surrounded by precipitous walls a thousand feet high.
Crater Lake has no known inlet nor outlet, yet it remains at an almost constant level. Although a mile above sea level, the lake never freezes.

Crater Lake was created a National Park in 1902, includes an area of 249 square miles. It was discovered in 1853 by a party hunting a lost mine.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Over in the new interior building—where you can hardly turn a light on without a written permit from the secretary—Secretary Harold L. Ickes is writing finis to one of the greatest eras in American history, the era of western railroad expansion.

I will try to give it to you in a nutshell. Back in 1850, Uncle Sam needed transportation more than anything else. The wood-eating Iron Horse looked like a pretty good bet. It might even be an improvement on the Pony Express. It not only might be able to get the mail through as fast—it might be able to carry some freight too.

The men who manipulated the railroads looked around, too.
 They would be willing to stake their all if they just had something big in return. What could Uncle Sam offer? Uncle Sam looked around. Goodness knows, he did have land. West of the Mississippi there was more land than any one ever had dreamed of.

So the "biggest real estate deal since the Louisiana Purchase" was soon in progress. It involved vast land grants on one hand, agreement to complete vast railroad systems on the other. When the history of this era is fully written, it will fill volumes. For 21,500 miles of high iron, the United States gave away 153 million acres of land. That was about the equivalent of all the Atlantic seaboard states from Maine to Florida, inclusive. In addition, Uncle Sam had the privilege on all of these lines of shipping freight at half the established rate. Also, all government employees were to travel on half fare.

Texas Was Excluded

THIS, mind you, was on practically all railroads operating west of the Mississippi, exclusive of the Texas mileage. When Texas came into the Union, it retained state domain over all its lands. Outside of Texas, the railroads could have almost anything they asked for—if they completed a line. Seventy-five of them did.

For a long time it was wonderful. Railroads had gold and silver mines, farm lands, cattle and

Isn't Worth Much

SINCE then, about 30 roads have turned back every acre, except for rights-of-way. It adds up to about 200,000 acres, or one seven-hundredth of the original grants. Most of it is desert swamp or mountain top and doesn't amount to much. But it is the squaring of accounts—the end of one of the most fantastic eras in American history—when natural resources were so bountiful that building a mile of track was good for a brace of ranches.

It's all over now. The Illinois Central, the C. & N. W., the Katy, the Rock Island, the C. M. & St. P., the Missouri Pacific, the Frisco, the Great Northern, the Southern Pacific and many others have settled their accounts—turned in the worthless land—and now can charge Uncle Sam the same freight rates they charge Joe Doakes. It may not save the railroads, but it will help.

in the jail house.

Came February 14. Nobody had registered.

So now, as soon as this Special Defense Unit can get the money, it will go after these organizations and bring them to book. To do this, its staff will study the 1700 foreign language newspapers, 200 foreign tongue radio stations, 200 foreign movie theaters, and practically everyone who reads, hears or sees them.

This is the first effort to bring into the open fifth column activities, and by so doing demoralize their attack on the American social structure. Whether or not this organized subversion can be legislated out of existence is the question the unit will try to find out.

The Special Defense Unit isn't to be another police force, or division of censorship, and it isn't to be a prosecution section, either. Rather, it will work between the two existing Department of Justice sections directly charged with those jobs—the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the criminal and claims divisions.

Many defense laws over which the Special Defense Unit watches have been on the books since the last war, but in the years of peace there have been only a few cases to be handled. In 1940, however, there were nearly 17,000 and the number this year will go way beyond. Naturally, charting the old ship of state through all the legal reefs is a hazardous piloting, and think of the red tape seaweed to tangle the propeller.

In general, all cases of espionage, sabotage, sedition and kidnapping subjects dug up by the FBI will pass through the Special Defense Unit for review and study. Eighty per cent of the cases will go automatically to the criminal division for prosecution. The other 20 per cent—involving some question of policy in defense handling, or the co-operation of some other department of the government, or some new legislation to button up a loophole—will be what will keep the DJSDU busy.

Noted Evangelistic Singer Comes Here For Gathering Friday Night

Homer Rodheaver, famous song leader and evangelist singer with the late Billy Sunday, will visit Warren on Friday evening of this week, coming to the First Evangelical church for the gathering of the Warren County Christian Endeavor Society.

The service is scheduled at 7:30 o'clock and, besides all young people of the county, every person interested is extended an invitation to be in attendance.

Rodheaver, who was song leader from 1909 to 1931 for Billy Sunday, is famous as a composer of hymns, author of several books—including "Song Stories of the Sawdust Trail"—founder of the Winona Lake School of Sacred Music, president of the Rodheaver-Hall-Mack Publishing Company.

In constant demand for conferences and conventions, he has directed as many as 50,000 voices at one time, and it is estimated that he has sung his way into the hearts of more than 70 million people.

Rodheaver will have with him his famous trombone, which he took with him when he marched off to the Spanish-American War, then later to the front lines during the World War, and which brought him world wide fame as he campaigned with Billy Sunday.

Through his personal magnetism and the sheer charm of his music, he never fails to win an enthusiastic audience.

He has visited Warren on numerous occasions and is always assured of a warm welcome by many friends in the section.

As a member of the Eastern team-of-four champions, Mrs. Shuyesant Wainwright of New York is the first woman to have her name engraved on the Reisinger trophy. Her teammates were Oswald Jacoby, Sherman Stearns and Charles Lochridge of New York, and John R. Crawford of Philadelphia.

The Eastern Tournament is one of the oldest in the country, and was formerly conducted by the Knickerbocker Whist Club. This year it was taken over by the American Contract Bridge League. I believe that it provides the strongest competition of any tournament in the country.

Mrs. Wainwright, a former Pittsburgh girl, was certainly thrilled when she made this contract doubled.

Mrs. Wainwright trumped the opening lead. She cashed the ace of spades and discovered the extremely bad trump break.

Dummy was put in with the ace of clubs to lead a heart, which South ruffed. A second club was led. South ruffed and led another heart, which South ruffed.

Now Mrs. Wainwright led her last club. West again ruffed. But now West had no safe exit. He tried leading the nine of diamonds. Dummy played the ten, East the queen, and South the king.

Then South led the eight, which held the trick when West did not cover. The defenders made only three trump tricks.

Eileen always felt somehow more grown-up than Aunt Lou, with her eagerness over this and that at a glance, her own high culture, not hard-working en-

Her eyes moved to them. They had their heads together. They were whispering. And Eileen thought she knew what about. They didn't often come scouting together for that little radio station of theirs a hundred-odd miles away. But they had, yesterday. They had telephoned her about an audition. And they had heard her, today, on the early part of the program, heard her sing the "Shadow Song" from "Dinorah," and applauded like mad.

They actually had been whispering about her. Lucille Anders, beside her, punched her hand.

"Look," she muttered. "Did you see the Weigands? They've been whispering ever since you sang and nodding like mad. Aren't you the lucky girl?"

"Born lucky," Eileen whispered back. No use going into anything here, with Prexy liable to stop any moment and leave your voice audible and alone. It wasn't as simple, financially, as Lucille thought it was—Lucille, who would never have to worry about money as long as she lived.

Prexy's voice slowed, boomed more softly.

"Miss Edith Willeston. Wagon you know, I need not say, by reputation," he ended, as a tall blond woman crossed the stage with a near-dramatic verve and dash.

Eileen did not know her, at least could not place her, at all. Middle-aged, more or less, of course—she wouldn't be haunting commencement days as a principal speaker otherwise—but slim smart, easy-striding in her perfectly cut black with its single string of genuine pearls. Something about her suggested the hunting set from English novels, country-house stuff, diamonds and imports after hours. The name had a vague familiarity, at that. Somebody Aunt Lou believed in.

Miss Willeston was speaking now. She had a trained voice clear and dynamically charming.

"You think, you young people of today—" Eileen had missed something—"That because we won you equal suffrage, because we freed your youth boys and girls both, a generation ago, everything is..."

On yes. That was Aunt Lou, who had worked for suffrage herself in her girlhood, was so apt. It came back dimly to Eileen, who was not especially interested, that Edith Willeston had been the young beauty of the suffrage movement. That she had ridden a white horse down Fifth Avenue a year or two before Eileen was born at a head of a procession of women who were and didn't make speeches...

By the time her mind had returned from her own problems, she was coming out. The speech was over. The college orchestra was playing Victor Herbert in a relieved way. Then came the diplomas, and the class was mixing with the audience. Eileen skirted the president and his guests carefully. She was about to play hooch as a quiet, almost flattery, on the steps as she strayed down to where her aunt stood—could choose between the flesh-pots of Egypt—old Onderdonk, the head trustees, the elegant orchestra and the caterers' loaves—and dancing with her at Jerry's to the thump and wail and wiggle of the three-piece Negro band.

She greeted her aunt, excited and fearful in the crowded aisles, saved to Jordan, bolted back to the cloakroom and was off.

O'no. Just as she had almost gained the door, one of the faculty wives put a hand on her arm, and said, "Just a minute, Eileen: the president wants you."

That was that. She smiled brightly and let herself be led to where the president stood beside tall, bright-smiling Miss Willeston.

So now, as soon as this Special Defense Unit can get the money, it will go after these organizations and bring them to book. To do this, its staff will study the 1700 foreign language newspapers, 200 foreign tongue radio stations, 200 foreign movie theaters, and practically everyone who reads, hears or sees them.

This is the first effort to bring into the open fifth column activities, and by so doing demoralize their attack on the American social structure. Whether or not this organized subversion can be legislated out of existence is the question the unit will try to find out.

The Special Defense Unit isn't to be another police force, or division of censorship, and it isn't to be a prosecution section, either. Rather, it will work between the two existing Department of Justice sections directly charged with those jobs—the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the criminal and claims divisions.

Many defense laws over which the Special Defense Unit watches have been on the books since the last war, but in the years of peace there have been only a few cases to be handled. In 1940, however, there were nearly 17,000 and the number this year will go way beyond. Naturally, charting the old ship of state through all the legal rocks is a hazardous piloting, and think of the red tape seaweed to tangle the propeller.

In general, all cases of espionage, sabotage, sedition and kindred subjects dug up by the FBI will pass through the Special Defense Unit for review and study. Eighty per cent of the cases will go automatically to the criminal division for prosecution. The other 20 per cent—involving some question of policy in defense handling, or the co-operation of some other department of the government, or some new legislation to button up a loophole—will be what will keep the DJSU busy.

Homer Rodeheaver, famous song leader and evangelist singer with the late Billy Sunday, will visit Warren on Friday evening of this week, coming to the First Evangelical church for the gathering of the Warren County Christian Endeavor Society.

The service is scheduled at 7:30 o'clock and, besides all young people of the county, every person interested is extended an invitation to be in attendance.

Rodeheaver, who was song leader from 1908 to 1931 for Billy Sunday, is famous as a composer of hymns, author of several books—including "Song Stories of the Sawdust Trail"—founder of the Winona Lake School of Sacred Music, president of the Rodeheaver, Hall-Mack Publishing Company.

In constant demand for conferences and conventions, he has directed as many as 50,000 voices at one time, and it is estimated that he has sung his way into the hearts of more than 70 million people.

Rodeheaver will have with him his famous trombone, which he took with him when he marched off to the Spanish-American War, then later to the front lines during the World War, and which brought him world wide fame as he campaigned with Billy Sunday.

Through his personal magnetism and the sheer charm of his music, he never fails to win an enthusiastic audience.

THE CAREER OF A GIRL WHO FOLLOWED HER HEART
 BY MARGARET WIDDEMER

Eileen was led to tall smiling Miss Willesdon worrying about whether they could vote or not.

"You think you have equality of the sexes," Miss Willesdon's ringing voice went on. "You have nothing of the sort. Not so long as one girl among you feels that she must use trickery, pretense, by-ends to win one man among you, instead of saying frankly to him, 'I love you. We can be happier together than apart; will you marry me?' And not till any man among you dares to say to the girl he loves, 'I cannot earn for two. Marry me, and carry the financial burden till I am on my feet.' Not until..."

Summons From Prexy

IT sounded to Eileen like nonsense. She felt like rising and waving her hand and saying, "Don't be silly!"

Heaven knew you didn't have to use trickery or what have you on Jordan. In Eileen's experience so far, the trouble was to keep them from getting to the point where they asked you; for then you hadn't them as friends any longer. And as for a man asking you to marry him and support him—well, today if anybody had a job you did what you could and didn't make speeches...

By the time her mind had returned from her own problems, the applause for Miss Willesdon was crashing out. The speech was over. The college orchestra was playing Victor Herbert in a relieved way. Then came the diplomas, and the class was mixing with the audience. Eileen skirted the president and his guests carefully. She was about to play hooky.

There was a quiet, almost furtive small party invariably given on commencement night. Those in the secret knew. Those who weren't asked were left wryly to suspect. It was for the year's speaker, and a selected group of university and city celebrities. The pick of the graduating class were invited, as a crowning honor. The house of a millionaire patron of the university, for the university was fortunate in its millionaires, would be lighted up. There was to be an orchestra in the ballroom, there would be refreshments, there would be a chosen group of the city's important people moving in and out. And it was an understood thing that it was, in an elegant and superior way, a species of hiring fair. If you wanted a contact with somebody who might get you a job, you went to the Underdunks.

little quiet evening party—if you were asked.

Eileen had not intended to go at all. Some of the group she belonged to—and let—were pulling a quiet little affair of their own. At least, it would start by being quiet. Jerry's had little tables and paper napkins and a dance floor, and a small but keen live band and very good beer.

And Jerry—Eileen smiled a little, on the steps as she strayed down to where her aunt stood—could choose between the fleshpots of Egypt—old Onderdonk, the head trustees, the elegant orchestra and the caterers' ices—and dancing with her at Jerry's to the thump and wail and wiggle of the three-piece Negro band.

She greeted her aunt, excited and tearful in the crowded aisles, waved to Jordan, bolted back to the cloakroom and was off.

Or nearly. Just as she had almost gained the door, one of the faculty wives put a hand on her arm, and said, "Just a minute, Eileen; the president wants you."

That was that. She smiled brightly and let herself be led to where the president stood beside tall, bright-smiling Miss Willesdon.

BPW Members Make Plans For Future And Hear Address

Miss Eunice Alexander, vice president, was in charge of the meeting of the Warren Business and Professional Women's Club held last evening following 6:30 dinner in the Y. W. C. A. activities building.

Miss MayBelle Bairstow, program chairman for the evening, presented Leon Laskaris as guest speaker.

Telling of his familiarity with the club's aims and purposes, Mr. Laskaris said he looked forward to the time when the B. P. W. will stand for a real force in the community by carrying out the chosen program theme for this year, "Making Democracy Work."

Taking up the topic, "Weighing Government Costs," the speaker defined each word and pointed out the application of each to the other. He stated that one must be familiar with the dollar values of the various phases of government if he is to fully understand the topic. The few statistics which he presented were very apt, showing that the national wealth today per capita stands at $3500, national income per capita at $700, per capita taxes $147 for federal government. A comparison of 1929 taxes and indebtedness with today's figures was given and the question of assembling valid statistics was touched upon.

During the business meeting, routine reports were given by Miss MayBelle Bairstow, Miss Ruth Woodin, Miss Ellen Thoreson. Members received an invitation to the birthday banquet of the Union City club on April 28 and several announced their intention of being present.

It was voted to send Miss Montana Knupp to Hershey on May 15, 16 and 17 as the club's delegate to the state convention; also to hold a special meeting on April 29 for the purpose of electing officers for next year. This meeting will also be at the Y. W. C. A. and will begin at eight o'clock. The nominating committee appointed consisted of Miss Ruth Woodin, Miss Alice Pearson and Miss Mabel Nelson.

Announcement was made that Miss Thoreson, in charge of the May 12 meeting, wants members to bring current events for discussion; that plans are being made for the club's birthday banquet in June. It was voted to hold this function at the Y. W. also, with each member bringing as a guest some person interested in club membership.

WEIDERT LEADS IN INDUSTRIAL LOOP WITH 181

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Sixteen major league baseball machines were lined up today for action before more than 200,000 fans—but, even on opening day, it was the old familiar story of chasing the New York Yankees.

MARIUS RUSSO

The Yankees didn't give Washington a chance. The ceremonies of Vice-president Wallace raising the American flag and President Roosevelt throwing out the first ball were hardly over before the Yanks rolled out in front.

Red Rolfe, second man up, singled to right. He was forced by Tommy Henrich, but the latter went all the way to second on a wild throw and scored quickly on a triple by Joe DiMaggio.

The Senators, as well as the spectators, were practically stunned by the ease of the thrust, and Marius Russo, slender southpaw, never let them recover. He held the Nationals to their three scattered singles and started two of the Yankees' three double plays.

In addition, the Yanks punched out another run in the fifth on two doubles, one by Russo himself, and scored again in the sixth on two singles and a long fly.

The Yanks are due to open their home season today against the Athletics.

The Detroit Tigers face the St. Louis Browns, "spoilers" of better teams all last season, and the Cleveland Indians ran into the always-dangerous Chicago White Sox in their opener today.

The St. Louis Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds clash today at Cincinnati, while the Brooklyn Dodgers, their arch rivals in the East, take on the lustre-lacking New York Giants.

From a fans' viewpoint, however, the show at Cincinnati shaped up as the day's most interesting and important. Crosley field was sold out of reserved seats for the opener long ago as a result of the Cincinnati custom of giving the tickets as Christmas gifts.

Until proved otherwise, the Reds have to be regarded the likely winner next fall because they have unequalled pitching and defense and have bolstered their batting strength through the trade with Chicago for outfielder Jim Gleason.

Other clubs have improved, too, but it will take a lot of reconstruction to overcome the 12 game lead with which Cincinnati finished last year.

The other openers included Pittsburgh at Chicago and Boston at Philadelphia in the National, and Washington at Boston in the American.

With an average of 181 in 75 games, Leo Weidert took the individual championship in the Industrial Bowling League, according to season averages released by the Arcade alleys.

Weidert's nearest rival was Stanchiff with an average of 178, and Charley Zuerl was third with 176. R. Sweetland and Holcomb tied for fourth with 174.

SPORT SCATTERING

By Bill Rice

You'll recall, perhaps, that a week or two ago we devoted a few paragraphs to the language of "Chitlin' Switch," the phrases of the track. As a matter of fact, we were influenced by a particularly dull day in the realm of sports and were conscious of not being particularly entertaining. Much to our surprise, however, it seems that the language caught on in many quarters and we received many additions to the paddock vocabulary and a number of requests for additional samples of the vernacular. So, we add this bit for you to interpret, without looking at the paragraph which follows it and which partially translates it.

"We ain't tight, see, so we think we'll give him a race. We drop him in a $1,500 top and bottom and figure we'll get away with it cause there ain't no haltermaster around. Well, he comes in walking on eggs, and the talent figures he ain't been sent anyhow. We get a hold-on Johnny at the start and we break in a tangle. The favorite's away on the Bill Daly and it looks like he'll laugh home. But on the last turn he heads for Pocaloti and throws up his tail. We get through on the inside and turn on the fan, the jock hits him with everything but the sixteenth pole, and we're along in a Garrison to win by a dirty nose. And there we are lookin' out the window."

Clawed into the vernacular, this signifies that a trainer who thought his horse needed a little harder exercise before he could be at his best, put him in a race which he did not expect to win, solely for the workout. He put him in a cheaper race than he belonged in, because he thought no one would claim him, even at the low figure of $1,500. The horse came out walking as if he were sore, and the experts thought the stable was not trying. The horse fell into the hands of an assistant starter who didn't break him loose quickly enough, and he did not break cleanly and met interference. The favorite was off in front, and it seemed he would win quite easily. But on the turn into the stretch the favorite bore to the outside rail and quit. The horse under discussion saved ground along the rails, the jockey drove him hard, and in a finish made famous by the great Snapper Garrison, he won by so narrow a margin that the dirt on his nose might have decided it. And the trainer didn't have a bet on him!

This week will see the wind-ups of all bowling loops in the city except for the Elks, who will roll scheduled matches all next week and start their roll-offs on April 28. It is estimated that these will take about two weeks. Thursday night at the Conewango Club the whole membership will probably turn out to see the Battle of the Century between the Yergs, winners of the first and third rounds, and the Pettibones, second round winners. The Casays will settle matters on Friday.

YEARS AGO IN SPORT

April 15, 1921—During the basketball season this year there were two young teams here who made an enviable record, both in the number of victories annexed and in gentlemanly conduct off and on the court. We refer to the Comets and Troop Seven, on which there are many future stars for Warren's big teams.

April 15, 1931—Babe Ruth started the season auspiciously by getting a home run in the seventh inning, but Chuck Klein, of the Phillies, stole his thunder by hammering a pair of circuit wallops.

STREAMS LINED WITH HORDE OF EARLY ANGLERS

Harrisburg, April 15.—(P)—Pennsylvania's trout season was well on its way to establishing half a dozen records long before the crack of dawn today.

There was nothing official about the records—it was too early for that—but fish wardens said the number of fish being caught and the number of men catching them was "terrific."

Opening of the season one minute after midnight acted like a starting gun on the hordes of anglers who had been lining streams throughout the state hours before.

Every factor seemed favorable—especially the balmy weather—and by the time the early rosy fingered dawn began making leafy patterns on rippling waters, many a creel was already full.

The early birds were part of an army of 200,000 expected to try their luck today.

The warm weather, the fish commission said, gave the advantage to fly fishermen over users of the anglegorm—a rare circumstance for the opening of the season.

The advantage lay particularly with anglers using wet flies, nymphs, streamer flies and buck-tails—lures which go beneath the water surface, the commission said.

In added spinners, minnows, and white grub worms were proving appetizing and that the anglegorm was holding its own in "uniform effectiveness."

2. THE GRIP: The first great principle that must be observed is that the fingers, wrists and forearms supply the motive power necessary to propel the ball. Great physical strength is not necessary, but what is important is that the strength applied be not misapplied.

For a correct grip take the club in your left hand, overlap the right hand on the left leaving three knuckles of the left hand exposed. This gives the effect of V on both hands. The V of the left hand should point to the left shoulder and the V of the right hand to the right shoulder.

ALL-EVENTS LEADER BEING THREATENED

St. Paul, April 15.—(P)—The 2013 all-events total scored by Harold Kelly, of South Bend, Ind., on March 29 will be in jeopardy in the American Bowling Congress tourney today. Kelly averaged 223.6 for his nine games in the three events.

John Marshall, Wooster, O., tossed in a 715 series in the five-man event last night and needs a 1,299 total in the doubles and singles to pass Kelly in the 9-game division. In averaging 238.1, Marshall had games of 232, 238 and 245 with the Collier Printers, who hit only 2702.

St. Paul House, Shakopee, took fourth place in the team event last night. Opening with a terrific 1-058, the Gophers added 1,001 and 968 to fall 38 pins shy of the leading 3,065 score of the Vogel Brothers, Forest Park, Ill.

None of the minor events leaders was disturbed during Monday's firing

Steel Workers Open Drive to Extend Raises
cleared in 1940 before payment of dividends. In addition, demands of the United Mine Workers for increased pay may add between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 to costs.

To cover all of this added cost would require around $2 a ton on the corporation's 28,000,000 tons of steel ingots produced last year. Observers, however, do not expect a raise exceeding $1 a ton.

A corresponding increase in the steel industry, of which U. S. Steel represents approximately 35.2 per cent, would boost the workers' pay envelopes by $180,000,000 or more a year if operations continue at the present high rate of 98 per cent plus of capacity.

Three Committees

taprooms on Saturday night. It also would advance from 7 a. m. to 6 a. m. opening time for drinking establishments on weekdays. Dry forces are opposing the bill and asked for today's hearing as an extension of a previous meeting so that they could offer additional testimony.

Retail liquor dealers told the committee they needed the longer hours to compete with "one man" clubs which are permitted to remain open until 3 a. m. Sundays.

To this opponents asserted that this time would "increase the opportunity for violation of the law."

Appearing before another House committee investigating the progress of soil conservation in Pennsylvania, Secretary of Agriculture John Light asserted the inquiry had "turned into an inquisition."

Objecting to questions concerning the connection between the Pennsylvania State College extension Service and the soil conservation board, Light declared "everything was done in an impartial manner and in accordance with the acts of the assembly."

The House arranged the committee meetings in advance of its 1 p. m. convening time while the Senate prepared to meet at 12:30 p. m.

The Senate stepped up its tempo yesterday by reporting from committee four administration bills and receiving five more on the floor. The latter five would set up a "little WPA" in the state to operate in the event the federal work relief program was abolished.

The House rejected by one vote a bill to permit sale of bottled goods at bars. The vote was 104 to 78 with 105 needed for passage. There was no debate.

Kentucky Mine War Flares Up
mines since have suspended operations under a truce arrangement sponsored by Gov. Keen Johnson.

Tennessee officers were notified when the automobile and truck loads of men left here last night in the direction of the Fork Ridge property, Harrell said.

Deputy Sheriff C. C. Harmon of Clairborne county, Tennessee, placed the time of the gunfire at about 2 a. m. (EST) three hours after the strike was to have reported for work.

Harrell said he understood that a variety of types of guns and pistols were used and that there were no hand-to-hand clashes. All the injured, he reported, suffered from gun wounds.

The officer related that his information was that the miners, in about 100 automobiles and trucks of which a majority bore Harlan county license plates, arrived near the mine "shortly after midnight and tried to get the mine to shut down."

"Both sides," he continued, "were shooting with shotguns and pistols. There has been so much confusion it has been hard to get a clear picture of the trouble."

An executive of the Fork Ridge Company who declined to permit the use of his name declared that the mine would not attempt operations today.

The working employs approximately 400.

See Hopes For Partial Peace in Coal Fields

The problem in south and in outlying states where 45 per cent of the Appalachian output and about one-third of the country's tonnage is produced, would remain in the hands of southern operators and the union, under the plan. Some 150,000 other miners are idle there.

Southern operators bolted the Appalachian wage conference last Friday, refusing to raise daily wages to $7—a $1.40 boost in the south and $1 increase in the north—which would have made that wage standard for the entire industry.

of a milk delivery truck.

With these weapons, Joseph Riordan, Charles McGale and John Waters forced their way to temporary freedom early yesterday after killing a prison guard. Waters paid for this with his life in a gun duel in Ossining, where a policeman also was slain.

Riordan and McGale escaped across the Hudson river, but were captured a few hours later. Fourth life lost was that of a prisoner who died from shock.

Italy's Latest Protests

Facing Flat Rejection

day, argued that this damage actually did not endanger the safety of the vessels, nor of cargo or persons aboard, and that American law covered only cases in which such safety was endangered.

Previously both Italy and Germany, two of whose ships were seized, had entered initial protests and both met with rejections. No change of United States attitude was expected to result from Rome's presentation of the legalistic arguments.

This newest diplomatic skirmish was regarded as but another in a long chain of events contributing to the deterioration of once friendly American-Italian relations.

Already as a result of the ship seizures, Italy has recalled her Washington naval attaché, Admiral Alberto Lais, in response to a demand by this government and in turn has requested the withdrawal of the assistant American Military Attaché in Rome, Major William D. Bentley. In conformity with usual diplomatic procedure, Washington probably will announce soon the assignment of Major Bentley to some other post.

American-Italian relations hit the downhill trend with refusal by the United States to recognize Mussolini's conquests in Ethiopia and Albania and have been strained further since the start of the European war, and President Roosevelt's characterization of Italy's attack on embattled France as a "stab in the back."

The cumulative effect of these and other antagonistic policies and incidents between the two nations has given rise to speculation here that Mussolini may be considering:

1. Breaking off diplomatic relations with the United States; or
2. Recalling Ambassador Colonna as an "unfriendly" gesture and leaving a less-important official in charge of the Washington embassy. This would put Italian relations on the same plane as German relations since the German ambassador went home months ago.

No official confirmation involving either of these severe measures has been given in Washington or Rome, however, and it is believed in informed circles here that Il Duce would take such action only as a last resort.

Motorist Shot and Left To Die Along Highway

tomobile near Morgantown, N. C. Their deaths were attributed to a hit-and-run.

Boyce left his home near Philadelphia, yesterday on a business trip.

A motorist found him, shot in the groin along Route 29 two miles south of the village of Piney River at 10:15 p. m.

With his life ebbing away, he was unable to talk, but did indicate a pocket in which were identifying papers and a photograph of two small girls, his daughters, Jean and Patricia, now 18 and 17 years old. He died within 30 minutes.

In Lansdowne, his wife, Mrs. Hettie Bricker Boyce, recalled that eight years ago two men had jumped into the back of the car and ordered her to "keep going."

Boyce crashed the machine into an elevated railway pillar, she said, but the men escaped.

"Since then he always kept the doors locked," she said. "Maybe he had a window open last night because of the weather."

Mrs. Boyce said her husband "would not drive at night" and had often cautioned her and their daughters about "picking up hitchhikers."

The British said they lost no planes.

THIRD RAID ON STOCK DEALINGS NORWAY STAGED STILL SLUGGISH

New York, April 15—(P)—The Norwegian naval forces using one of the destroyers Britain obtained from the United States made an "extremely successful" raid on northern Norway, the Norwegian Telegram Bureau said today, quoting a message from the Norwegian legation in London.

The bureau said the raid was carried out in agreement with the British Admiralty, which turned the former American warship over to the Norwegian navy.

The raid had been carefully planned by Norwegian naval authorities a long time in advance, the announcement said.

The statement described this as the "last raid" made on Norway, and apparently referred to the one reported authoritatively in London yesterday to have been carried out Sunday.

This was the second—perhaps the third—Allied landing in Norway in recent weeks.

The first was made March 4 when the British landed at Lofoten island, destroyed oil tanks, sank 11 ships under German command, captured 225 prisoners and sailed back to England with 300 young Norwegian recruits to the Allied cause.

Reuters, British news agency, yesterday quoted a Stockholm dispatch to the effect that a Norwegian ship, similarly acting under agreement with the British, made a raid Saturday night.

The Germans were said to be driving toward Kozane and Siatica, Greek towns 30 miles south of Philoiana.

With the German and Italian lines joined in Yugoslavia, north of Lake Ohrid, several other arteries were opened for Axis attacks in the Corizza area.

The center of the British-Greek defense line which jutted north-west from Mt. Olympus to Philoiana and then slanted southwest to the Adriatic coast has been withdrawn, forming a new front deeper in Greece.

The shift was disclosed late last night in a Greek High Command communiqué which did not indicate where the new stand cleared in 1940 before payment of dividends. In addition, demands of the United Mine Workers for increased pay may add between $6,000,000 and $10,000,000 to costs.

To cover all of this added cost would require around $2 a ton on the corporation's 23,000,000 tons of steel ingots produced last year. Observers, however, do not expect a raise exceeding $1 a ton.

A corresponding increase in the steel industry, of which U. S. Steel represents approximately 35.2 per cent, would boost the workers' pay envelopes by $180,000,000 or more a year if operations continue at the present high rate of 98 per cent plus of capacity.

Harrell said he understood that a variety of types of guns and pistols were used and that there were no hand-to-hand clashes. All the injured, he reported, suffered from gun wounds.

The officer related that his information was that the miners, in about 100 automobiles and trucks of which a majority bore Harlan county license plates, arrived near the mine shortly after midnight and tried to get the mine to shut down.

"Both sides," he continued, "began shooting with shotguns and pistols. There has been so much confusion it has been hard to get a clear picture of the trouble."

An executive of the Fork Ridge Company who declined to permit the use of his name declared that the mine would not attempt operations today.

The working employs approximately 400.

"Since then he always kept the doors locked," she said. "Maybe he had a window open last night because of the weather."

Mrs. Boyce said her husband "would not drive at night" and had often cautioned her and their daughters about "picking up hitchhikers."

The problem in south and in outlying states where 45 per cent of the Appalachian output and about one-third of the country's tonnage is produced, would remain in the hands of southern operators and the union, under the plan. Some 150,000 other miners are idle there.

Southern operators bolted the Appalachian wage conference last Friday, refusing to raise daily wages to $7—a $1.40 boost in the south and $1 increase in the north—which would have made that wage standard for the entire industry.

The House rejected by a vote of 104 to 78 with 105 needed for passage. There was no debate.

mines since have suspended operations under a truce arrangement sponsored by Gov. Keen Johnson. Tennessee officials were notified when the automobile and truck loads of men left here last night in the direction of the Fork Ridge property, Harrell said.

THIRD RAID ON STOCK DEALINGS NORWAY STAGED STILL SLUGGISH

Washington, April 15.—(P)—Secretary Stimson solemnly warned a Senate investigating committee today that the United States is facing "a dangerous emergency" which "may be very prolonged."

Testifying as the first witness before a new defense investigating committee headed by Senator Truman (D-Mo) the War Department head indicated that in future preparations to meet this emergency the nation's civilian needs may be further subordinated to the military program to expedite production of war supplies.

He did not say just how long he thought the danger period might last, but he declared that to meet whatever situations may arise the army was planning a program of training which will cover "many successive military units and many successive installments of men, and which in the aggregate may last five years."

Presumably he referred to the training program under the selective service act which will be operative until 1945.

"Thus far the department has imposed its military program on top of the normal commercial operations of the country and to date the government has done little to subordinate the civilian needs of the country to its military program," Stimson said.

Total of 888 Food Dealers Join Food Stamp Plan in This District

A total of 888 food dealers in the five counties of Crawford, Erie, Mercer, Venango and Warren have signed up for participation in the Food Stamp Plan in this area. It was revealed today at the offices of the Surplus Marketing Administration of the Department of Agriculture in Meadville.

It was also stated by John F. Conaboy, who is in charge of the Food Stamp Plan in the Erie area, that through this program it is estimated that close to an additional million dollars worth of business will be done annually for merchants in the Stamp Plan. Participation is voluntary for both merchants and citizens who are eligible.

Not only do merchants stand to benefit through increased business brought by introduction of the Food Stamp Plan, Mr. Conaboy said, but needy families will have half again as much food available on their weekly budgets. Thus, to take one example, a family of five that has been living on a restricted food budget of $6.00 per week will now have an extra $2.00 a week from blue stamps to spend bringing total food expenditures for this particular family up to $8.00 a week. Persons in this area who are eligible to receive the benefits of the Stamp Plan come under the following heads: First, they must be receiving public assistance. Further, they must be either members of family groups or single members in a family group already receiving assistance, or single persons having facilities for cooking. Forms of public assistance are: General assistance, aid to dependent children, old-age assistance, blind pensions, Works Progress Administration and Pennsylvania Veterans' Compensation.

Merchants who wish to participate in the plan must sign an agreement that states they will cooperate with the federal government and accept the food stamps in accordance with the rules and regulations of the program. The federal government will not redeem any stamps accepted by a merchant who has not signed this agreement. Severe penalties are imposed by the federal government for any violations of the conditions outlined to participants and merchants alike.

On Friday, April 11, the last of a series of meetings planned by local food committees and representatives of the Surplus Marketing Administration for dealers in the Crawford area who wish to sign for participation was held in Meadville. Several such meetings have been held in each of the five counties.

At the meeting, Mr. McBriarty of the Surplus Marketing Administration explained that the Food Stamp Plan is one of several programs administered by the Department of Agriculture to assist farmers to dispose of surplus food products. One important feature of the Food Stamp Plan, Mr. McBriarty pointed out, is that surplus foods moved by this plan are not warehouse supplies that are simply being released to the general market, but are all items on hand fresh at your local grocers, and come from their regular stocks. Thus the Food Stamp Plan is being carried out in this five-county area, Mr. McBriarty said, with the cooperation of local banks, food merchants and public-spirited citizens. Under the Food Stamp Plan, the local grocer, through his normal channels of supply and distribution, acts as the farmer's front line salesman in a national program designed to get more good food to a greater percentage of American citizens.

The conclusion of this meeting for merchants marks the end of the first phase of the introduction of the Food Stamp Plan to this five-county area. It was further explained by Mr. Conaboy at the Surplus Marketing offices in Meadville. During the next week or so, Mr. Conaboy revealed, the administration will concentrate upon education of future participants in the Stamp Plan. Articles are being prepared for local papers in this area which will help all merchants and customers to comply with the simple regulations of the Stamp Plan. Thus it is expected that the plan will go into effect without any hitch.

When asked, Mr. Conaboy if the Surplus Marketing Administration had any information concerning the number of merchants who had signed up to handle food stamps in each county, he gave the following figures: The two counties of Warren and Crawford are tied for first place in percentage of merchants signing up, 54 percent of all dealers in both Warren and Crawford counties planning to participate. Venango, Erie and Mercer counties were next in the list. A special first meeting has been planned for Mercer county for Thursday night, April 17, in Ferrell, so that those merchants of this district who were unable to attend previous meetings may have their chance to come and hear about the Stamp Plan and to sign for participation.

After this last meeting, merchants in the five-county area who wish to sign up to accept food stamps in their store must have come direct to the Surplus Marketing Administration offices in Meadville at 37 Masonic building, or to an office in Erie, at an address to be announced later.

Evils of DISEASED TONSILS

The question of whether or not to have infected tonsils removed, and the delay in making the decision, has cost many children their health.

The tonsils seem to be favorite lurking places for germs and infections that spread through the blood to other parts of the body, with dire and painful results. Rheumatism, rheumatic heart trouble, ear trouble, St. Vitus dance and susceptibility to scarlet fever and diphtheria are some of the more serious things that may result from diseased tonsils. Repeated attacks of tonsillitis are dangerous, and usually precede some of the above mentioned complications, and other more remote diseases.

Removal of tonsils in a child, from three years of age and up, is a quick, practically painless operation, and the child is usually comfortable in a few hours. In a grown person the mental and physical suffering is greater, and the tonsils may have caused irreparable harm before their removal.

Therefore, consult your Physician and follow his advice about removal of infected tonsils.

Total of 888 Food Dealers Join Food Stamp Plan in This District

A total of 888 food dealers in the five counties of Crawford, Erie, Mercer, Venango and Warren have signed up for participation in the Food Stamp Plan in this area. It was revealed today at the offices of the Surplus Marketing Administration of the Department of Agriculture in Meadville.

It was also stated by John F. Conaboy, who is in charge of the Food Stamp Plan in the Erie area, that through this program it is estimated that close to an additional million dollars worth of business will be done annually by merchants in the five-county area participating in the Stamp Plan. Participation is voluntary for both merchants and citizens who are eligible.

Not only do merchants stand to benefit through increased business brought by introduction of the Food Stamp Plan, Mr. Conaboy said, but needy families will have half again as much food available on their weekly budgets. Thus, to take one example, a family of five that has been living on a restricted food budget of $6.00 per week will now have an extra $3.00 a week from blue stamps to spend bringing total food expenditures for this particular family up to $9.00 a week. Persons in this area who are eligible to receive the benefits of the Stamp Plan come under the following heads: First, they must be receiving public assistance. Further, they must be either members of family groups, or single members in a family group already receiving assistance, or single persons having facilities for cooking. Forms of public assistance are: General assistance, aid to dependent children, old-age assistance, blind pensions, Works Progress Administration and Pennsylvania Veterans Commission.

Merchants who wish to participate in the plan must sign an agreement that states they will cooperate with the federal government and accept the food stamps in accordance with the rules and regulations of the program. The federal government will not redeem any stamps accepted by a merchant who has not signed this agreement. Severe penalties are imposed by the federal government for any violations of the conditions outlined to participants and merchants alike.

On Friday, April 11, the last of a series of meetings planned by local food committees and representatives of the Surplus Marketing Administration for dealers in the Crawford area who wish to sign for participation was held in Meadville. Several such meetings have been held in each of the five counties.

At the meeting, Mr. McBriarty of the Surplus Marketing Administration explained that the Food Stamp Plan is one of several programs administered by the Department of Agriculture to assist farmers to dispose of surplus food products. One important feature of the Food Stamp Plan, Mr. McBriarty pointed out, is that surplus foods moved by this plan are not warehouse supplies that are simply being released to the general market, but are all items on hand fresh at your local grocers, and come from their regular stocks. Thus the Food Stamp Plan is being carried out in this five-county area, Mr. McBriarty said, with the cooperation of local banks, food merchants and public-spirited citizens. Under the Food Stamp Plan, the local grocer, through his normal channels of supply and distribution, acts as the farmer's front line salesman in a national group designed to get more good food to a greater percentage of American citizens.

The conclusion of this meeting for merchants marks the end of the first phase of the introduction of the Food Stamp Plan to this five-county area. It was further explained by Mr. Conaboy at the Surplus Marketing offices in Meadville. During the next week or so, Mr. Conaboy revealed, the administration will concentrate upon education of future participants in the Stamp Plan. Articles are being prepared for local papers in this area which will help all merchants and customers to comply with the simple regulations of the Stamp Plan. Thus it is expected that the plan will go into effect without any hitches.

When we asked Mr. Conaboy if the Surplus Marketing Administration had any information concerning the number of merchants who had signed up to handle food stamps in each county, he gave us the following figures: The two counties of Warren and Crawford are tied for first place in percentage of merchants signed, with 84 per cent of all dealers in both Warren and Crawford counties planning to participate. Venango, Erie and Mercer counties come close to the first two. A special final meeting has been planned for Mercer county for Thursday night, April 17, in Parrell, so that those merchants of this district who were unable to attend previous meetings may have their chance to come and hear about the Stamp Plan, and to sign for participation. After this last meeting, merchants in the five-county area who wish to sign up to accept food stamps in their store will have to come direct to the Surplus Marketing Administration offices in Meadville at 37 Masonic building, or to an office in Erie, at an address to be announced later.

In the last decade the number of share croppers in Texas has reduced from 105,122 to 39,821, according to the Census.

Evils of DISEASED TONSILS

The question of whether or not to have infected tonsils removed, and the delay in making the decision, has cost many children their health.

The tonsils seem to be favorite lurking places for germs and infections that spread through the blood to other parts of the body, with dire and painful results. Rheumatism, rheumatic heart trouble, ear trouble, St. Vitus dance and susceptibility to scarlet fever and diphtheria are some of the more serious things that may result from diseased tonsils. Repeated attacks of tonsillitis are dangerous, and usually precede some of the above mentioned complications, and other more remote diseases.

Removal of tonsils in a child, from three years of age and up, is a quick, practically painless operation, and the child is usually comfortable in a few hours. In a grown person the mental and physical suffering is greater, and the tonsils may have caused irreparable harm before their removal.

Therefore, consult your Physician and follow his advice about removal of infected tonsils.
